Dog owners fear poisoning

Falaise Park. Residents suspect antifreeze was injected into tennis balls

KATE WEBB
kate.webb@metronews.ca

Dog owners in an East Vancouver neighbourhood are warning others they suspect someone has been injecting tennis balls with antifreeze and leaving them in a local dog park, after at least two canines got sick.

Khoa Vo and his partner Kevin Campos became concerned a couple of weeks ago when their one-year-old Great Dane, Marley, developed strange symptoms after playing in the tall grass at Falaise Park, near Grandview Highway and Rupert Street.

"His face was swollen with red bumps and his eyes were running, and it looked funny. His face didn't look like Marley," said Vo. "He just looked really, really swollen."

They soon heard from a neighbour, Lori Campbell, that an unidentified man had pulled up to the park to caution others that his dog had suffered antifreeze poisoning after playing in the park and been taken to a veterinary hospital. Metro could not track down that owner by deadline, so his dog's condition is unknown.

Marley, who is 170 pounds, recovered in a few days and was not seen by a vet.

Lori's husband, Sean Campbell, was disturbed when days later he pulled a tennis ball dripping with a substance that smelled like antifreeze from the mouth of one of his two dogs. Thankfully, neither of his pets got sick.

According to the BC SPCA, a single tablespoon of antifreeze is enough to kill a 10-pound dog, and thousands of pets and wildlife die each year from antifreeze poisoning — usually accidental.

Vancouver Park Board spokeswoman Joyce Courtney said after staff were alerted to the concerns earlier in the week, a supervisor went to investigate and crews cut the long grass down, but they did not find anything suspicious.

BC SPCA chief prevention and enforcement officer Marcie Moriarty said she has seen cases before where people were prosecuted for leaving bowls of antifreeze out for neighbourhood cats, but she has not heard of anything like this.

"The majority of these random ones, unless somebody comes forward to say, 'Yes, I know my friend is doing this' or something like that, it's very challenging to investigate, but concerning," she said.

"If somebody did witness, or does know about it, we encourage them to call us."

Anyone with information can call the SPCA's animal-cruelty reporting hotline at 855-622-7722.

Oil spill

Kinder Morgan says pipeline leak is now contained

A crew was cleaning up a small oil spill Thursday from Kinder Morgan's Trans Mountain pipeline in B.C., where the company plans a controversial expansion through a province where the debate over oil pipelines and the tankers that go with them have played out in the headlines.

Initial estimates from the Calgary-based company said 12 barrels, or about 2,000 litres, of light crude leaked before an employee discovered the breach Wednesday about 40 kilometres south of Merritt where the line follows the Coquihalla Highway through the Cascade Mountains.

"We had crews in the area that were doing routine maintenance work and one of our crew members ... noticed a small pooling of what appeared to be oil," company spokesman Andy Galarnyk said.

The pipeline was shut down about 10 a.m. and a crew dispatched, he said. All regulatory agencies were notified, and by late Wednesday, the National Energy Board had observers on site and the repair was underway.

B.C.'s DUI laws save lives: Study

They work. Research from the University of Victoria said an estimated 104 lives were saved after the laws were introduced

B.C.'s controversial drinking and driving laws reduced the number of deaths from alcohol-related crashes by more than 40 per cent two years after they were implemented, a new study suggests.

Research from the University of Victoria said an estimated 104 lives were saved after the laws were introduced in September 2010, there was a 23 per cent reduction in the number of injuries, and property damage was slashed by nearly 20 per cent.

Lead study author Scott Macdonald, from the university's Centre for Addiction Research, said B.C. is the only province in Canada that has immediate consequences for drivers with blood-alcohol levels of higher than .05 per cent, below the Criminal Code threshold of .08 per cent.

Macdonald said other provinces and territories should have similar legislation to B.C., where immediate sanctions have largely replaced the Criminal Code, which had more severe penalties but a lower probability of punishment.

"The problem with the Criminal Code is that it's very time-consuming to convict somebody," he said. "You're not criminally charged and it's much more efficient for the officers."

Macdonald said that unlike the old provincial laws, the current legislation requires much less paperwork and uses evidence gathered by police at the roadside with a portable handheld breathalyzer device.

The study, which compared statistics from the 15-year period before and two-year period after the implementation of the legislation, was published in the online journal Accident Analysis and Prevention and is co-authored by researchers at the University of B.C.

It said the 68 per cent reduction in Criminal Code charges for drinking amounts to a partial decriminalization of impaired driving in B.C. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bowling down memory lane

Condo development. Community bowling centre being forced to close its doors after more than 30 years

MATT KIELTYKA
matt.kieltyka@metronews.ca

Excuse Ken Hayden for being bitter, even if his friendly demeanor shows little sign of cracking.

After running Varsity-Ridge Bowling Centre on W. 15th Avenue successfully since 1981, he is being forced to close its doors June 27 to make room for an impending condo development that has already claimed the Ridge Theatre.

The 750 league bowlers who have made Varsity-Ridge their home are being forced to relocate.

"We lose the ability for people to come together and interact with each other," says Hayden, about communities losing their longtime amenities in the face of real estate development.

The 69-year-old says he's bitter as he winds down his life at Varsity-Ridge. After all, there's a lifetime of memories in these lanes.

"I met my wife here," says Hayden. "She was a regular bowler. So I'd go to all the bowling banquets and she was at one of them. There were no seats around a table so for some reason I sat on her lap."

That was in 1983, and Hayden has had a spot on that lap ever since.

The retro five-pin alley is littered with such memories. The names of everyone who has bowled a score over 400 is adorned on a scoreboard. Provincial championship banners of youth teams playing out of Varsity-Ridge hang off one wall.

There was that time, shortly after the Vancouver Canucks were eliminated from the Stanley Cup final, that someone from a Boston area code tried booking a team event for the Canucks on April 1.

"I saw Massachusetts on the caller ID. Oh yeah, sure, I was really buying that one," Hayden laughed. "It turned out it was (Corey) Schneider's girlfriend. And the Canucks did show up."

Hundreds of photos of hockey players, celebrities, friends, family and charity events clutter the back walls.

In the end, Hayden says his bowling centre "is all about the people."

Hayden hopes many of those faces, and maybe some new ones, make a final visit to Varsity-Ridge on June 26 for an open house from 7 to 9 p.m. It will be one last roll through a colourful place, and a reminder of what the city is losing out on.

Hauled over the coals over coal

Port Metro Vancouver. U.S. and B.C. residents try to block coal exports

EMILY JACKSON
emily.jackson@metronews.ca

When it comes to coal-export expansion plans, Not From My Coastline appears to be the new NIMBY.

In light of increasing opposition to coal exports from Washington and Oregon, the governor of Wyoming and representatives of U.S. coal companies travelled to B.C. this week to court Vancouver port officials, Delta South MLA Vicki Huntington says.

The U.S. industry hopes it can convince Metro Vancouver to export coal after widespread concerns about coal dust and the environment saw three projects cancelled in Oregon and challenged plans in Washington, Huntington said.

But there could be as much opposition to coal exports along the coast north of the border.

A proposal to export coal from the Fraser Surrey Docks has many Lower Mainland residents upset about increased train traffic, coal dust and climate change associated with burning thermal coal.

Vancouver, White Rock and New Westminster councils, the Vancouver Coastal and Fraser Health Authorities and several environmental groups do not support the project.

Port Metro Vancouver has defended its review process, saying it's in the business of exporting things safely, not choosing what to export.

But it's unclear if opposition to coal exists throughout the province.

An Angus Reid poll found that 65 per cent of British Columbians agreed that, as a resource-based economy, B.C. should export coal overseas as long as all environmental laws are followed. Only 23 per cent disagreed with the statement.

The poll, conducted in May for the Coal Alliance, suggests that 74 per cent agree that coal exports support the economy with jobs and tax revenue.

But opinion was split on whether the government should be able to ban legal exports of any product. While 44 per cent said no, 43 per cent said it should.

On Friday, Metro Vancouver's environment and parks committee will ask the board to officially oppose coal shipments from the Fraser, with the exception of the existing Robert Banks terminal.

Wrench in the works

- Metro Vancouver doesn't have the power to stop the coal shipments, but it could delay some permits.

Investigation underway

Pilot dead in Kootenays crash

A man was killed after his Cessna 337 crashed near Crawford Bay in southeastern B.C. Transportation Safety Board official Bill Yearwood said the pilot, whose name was not released, was alone in the twin-engine plane headed to La Ronge, Sask. TSB investigators are travelling to the site and more information could be released later.

Radiation fears. Osoyoos band blocks FortisBC smart meters

Utility smart meters emit far less electromagnetic radiation than microwaves or laptop computers, but that hasn't stopped communities across B.C. from fearing the devices.

The Osoyoos Indian Band is the latest to voice its concerns by prohibiting the installation of the FortisBC smart meters on the reserve, Chief Clarence Louie said on Thursday.

There is no scientific evidence to verify the safety of the devices, Louie said, adding it is his responsibility to "err on the side of caution" to protect the people and the land.

But the radio-frequency energy emitted from the smart meters is more than 7,500 times below Health Canada limits, FortisBC says.

Will Alberta and B.C.'s relationship improve?

Spring thaw. Meeting between two premiers will highlight the many similarities between the two provinces

The thawing of the "frosty" relationship between British Columbia's Premier Christy Clark and Alberta's Premier Alison Redford could start Friday in Kelowna.

B.C. government advisers suggest the meeting between the two premiers will highlight the many similarities between the two provinces as opposed to their few differences.

Clark and Redford are meeting for about one hour in Kelowna, hours before the premiers head to Winnipeg for the annual Western Premiers Conference that also includes Canada's territorial leaders.

The premiers met last fall in Alberta in what was described as a frosty reception by Clark.

During the meeting, Clark and Redford expressed their differences over plans by Calgary-based Enbridge to build the proposed Northern Gateway pipeline from Northern Alberta to Northwest B.C.

Clark said the project must meet B.C.'s five environmental-focused conditions to get any chance of B.C.'s approval while Redford suggested Clark was interested in getting a larger share of the profits at Alberta's expense.

Just last month after Clark's surprising election victory, the B.C. government officially declared its opposition to Northern Gateway, telling the federal review panel the project should not go ahead as planned.

A B.C. adviser, who spoke on a background basis and did not want to be named, said a major shift on B.C.'s Enbridge position is not expected Friday.

But both premiers will acknowledge they are seeking to expand into Asia's marketplace primarily through resource exports — Alberta with oil and B.C. with liquefied natural gas.

Redford and Clark also share similar political success stories as both staged political-comeback election victories after being counted out of the race by pollsters and the media.

Crime ring

8 arrested, drugs, weapons seized in RCMP sting

Mounties in Saskatchewan and B.C. have teamed up to make eight arrests and bust what they allege is a ring dealing in drugs, guns and stolen goods. Supt. Kevin Jones in Saskatchewan says the investigation has been underway for 18 months. He says it began as an organized-crime investigation in Saskatchewan but clues led to B.C., and one person was arrested on marijuana trafficking charges in Merritt on June 9. A video surveillance system was also seized from the Merritt home and seven other arrests have been made.

Officers 'colluded' on story in Dziekanski case: Crown

Taser tales. Lawyer alleges four RCMP in perjury trial concocted own 'version of events'

The four Mounties involved in Robert Dziekanski's death "colluded" to come up with a story designed to justify their actions and then attempted to cover up their collusion by lying to a public inquiry, a Crown lawyer alleged Thursday ahead of the perjury trial of one of the officers.

Const. Bill Bentley is the first of the four officers to stand trial for perjury for their testimony at the public inquiry into Dziekanski's death. Dziekanski was stunned with a Taser at Vancouver's airport in October 2007.

The Crown has asked the judge hearing the case to allow the statements each of the officers made to homicide investigators in the hours following Dziekanski's death to be presented at Bentley's trial.

Crown counsel Eric Gottardi said the statements and police notes of all four officers contain the same inaccuracies and often use the same language to describe what happened when they confronted Dziekanski — leading to the "irresistible conclusion" they worked together to create the story they told investigators.

For example, all four officers claimed Dziekanski had to be wrestled to the ground and at least two said he appeared to be "fighting through" the Taser stun. A video that came out later clearly showed that Dziekanski fell to the floor almost immediately after the Taser was deployed, he noted.

"It's the Crown's theory that these incorrect observations were not the product of any confusion or a genuine mistake, but rather resulted from collaboration between the accused and his fellow officers before providing their accounts (to homicide investigators)," Gottardi told B.C. Supreme Court.

The Donald trumpets 'iconic' Van. tower

The rumours are true — Vancouver will get its very own Donald Trump tower.

The business tycoon and reality TV star will hold a news conference in Vancouver next Wednesday, alongside developers Holburn and TA Global, to announce details of "what will be one of Vancouver's most iconic buildings."

His visit confirms February news reports that the Trump Organization would make a deal with Holburn regarding a tower at 1151 West Georgia St.

The 63-storey condo and hotel building, a twisting structure designed by Arthur Erikson, was supposed to be occupied by the Ritz-Carlton, but the deal fell through and construction halted after the markets crashed in 2008. Construction resumed in 2012.

Details on the specifics of the Trump tower will be revealed at the news conference, which will also be attended by Trump's children Eric, Donald Jr., and Ivanka.

Vancouver will be the second Canadian city to get a Trump Tower. Toronto's 65-storey building, which boasts an expensive restaurant and luxury condos, had some legal snafus with buyers who tried to back out of their deals due to unexpected costs. EMILY JACKSON/METRO

Report: Police probed Rob Ford video weeks before story broke

Project Traveller. Toronto's police chief refuses to rule out possibility evidence collected in raid related to mayor

Toronto police using surveillance techniques were "investigating the existence" of an alleged crack-cocaine video linked to Mayor Rob Ford several weeks before the story first surfaced, CTV News reported Thursday in the wake of a massive, multi-city drugs-and-guns sweep by police.

The broadcaster quoted a "highly placed source" as confirming that "persons of interest discussed that video in detail, and referred to the mayor's alleged presence in the video."

The disclosure came as Toronto police Chief Bill Blair announced 43 people had been arrested, 40 firearms seized and $3 million of drugs confiscated in early morning raids concentrated on a cluster of apartment towers considered to be ground zero for the Ford video scandal.

Nineteen people in Toronto and nine in Windsor, Ont., were charged as part of a year-long police and border-security investigation code-named Project Traveller, Blair said at a news conference.

He declined to answer any questions about Ford's connection to the evidence, what evidence was seized, how it was obtained or about a home involved in the raids where a man photographed with Ford lived.

"The only place for the legal disclosure is in a court of law," he said. "All of the evidence has been secured and it will come out in court where it belongs. We will not jeopardize this case."

The home of Muhammad Khattak, one of the young men pictured with Ford outside a suspected crack house, was part of the raids.

Early-morning raids

'Complex' sweep extends to Edmonton

"Project Traveller is a very complex investigation" involving a gang called the Dixon City Bloods or Dixon Goonies, Toronto Deputy Police Chief Mark Saunders said Thursday. Their network extended to Edmonton and had operated since 2006, he said.

Edmonton police confirmed that officers executed search warrants Thursday, but would not say where or if anyone was arrested. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Report. Defence minister issued secret instructions to eavesdropping agency

Defence Minister Peter MacKay quietly issued new instructions to Canada's electronic eavesdropping agency that detail how and when it can help CSIS and the RCMP investigate Canadians, records show.

Briefing notes obtained under the Access to Information Act say the directive to the Ottawa-based Communications Security Establishment was one of seven such ministerial instructions issued in 2011.

The CSE monitors foreign computer, satellite, radio and telephone traffic to zero in on threats to Canada and gather intelligence. It is not supposed to direct its activities at Canadians. However, the agency can provide assistance to the Mounties and CSIS, Canada's domestic spy service.

Peter MacKay THE CANADIAN PRESS

For instance, the CSE says it may assist with the decryption of emails or other files that these organizations have collected. It can also provide advice, training and equipment.

The briefing notes say the November 2011 ministerial directive on assistance was intended to replace one from 2001, drafted before post-9-11 legislation that expanded the CSE's mandate.

Of the other six directives approved by MacKay that month, one deals with the CSE's sharing relationships as a member of the Five Eyes intelligence community — Canada, the United States, Britain, Australia and New Zealand. THE CANADIAN PRESS

VIA Rail strike averted as tentative deal reached

The Canadian Auto Workers union says it has reached a tentative deal with VIA Rail.

It followed days of tense, round-the-clock negotiations in Montreal and averted a strike that was set to begin just after midnight.

The union had sounded pessimistic on Thursday evening, saying the two sides were far apart.

No details of the tentative settlement were released.

Ratification votes are being scheduled.

Turkish PM demands an end to occupation of park

Protest. But Erdogan agrees to meet with protesters in a sign he might negotiate

Turkey's prime minister issued a "final warning" to protesters on Thursday, demanding they end their occupation of a park next to Istanbul's Taksim Square that has ignited the largest political crisis of his 10-year rule.

Despite the ultimatum by Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan, thousands of activists camping out in Gezi Park dug in for a potential culmination of their two-week standoff with authorities.

A violent police crackdown May 31 on a small sit-in to protect trees in Gezi Park sparked the protests that spread to dozens of cities. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Peace over violence?

- Erdogan was to meet late Thursday night with representatives of the protesters, including Taksim Solidarity. But that group does not speak for the thousands of protesters camping out in the park, so even if a deal is reached the sit-in may not end.

Cops raid PM's office building, arrest senior aide

The anti-organized crime unit in the Czech Republic has carried out raids at the Office of the Government, where Prime Minister Petr Necas is based, and at the Defence Ministry and other places across the country, police said on Thursday.

In comments to journalists, Necas confirmed that Jana Nagyova, the director of his office, was among those arrested. He said he would stand by her.

"At the moment, I have no information that would prove any criminal activity of my collaborators," Necas said.

Police spokesman Pavel Hantak declined to identify any of those arrested.

Necas called on the police and prosecutors to "immediately give reasons for such a massive action."

Mulcair apologizes for failing to stop at security checkpoint

To hear it told in the House of Commons, NDP Leader Tom Mulcair's minor run-in with the RCMP on Parliament Hill on Thursday could have been a scene from the latest Fast and Furious flick. The Opposition leader was forced to apologize after breezing through a security checkpoint and apparently failing to stop until halted by the Mounties.

The NDP, in a short statement, emphasized repeatedly that the incident was a "misunderstanding" and that the officer guarding the entrance didn't recognize Mulcair.

After what the NDP called a "respectful discussion" with an officer, Mulcair apologized. The party said no warnings or citations were issued.

But that's pretty much where "respectful" ended: Conservatives in the House were quick to not only mock the NDP leader, but to use the incident as a political hammer.

Heritage Minister James Moore, standing in for the travelling Prime Minister Stephen Harper, said the incident demonstrates Mulcair "does not have the temperament to be the prime minister of Canada."

Questions raised over Alberta spill

Big impact. First Nations community concerned over effect on environment

A First Nation wants answers from a Texas-based oil company after a pipeline spilled 9.5 million litres of industrial waste water in northern Alberta.

Dene Tha' leaders are to meet Monday with Apache Canada Ltd. officials in the remote community of Assumption. Sidney Chambaud, a band councillor, said they want more information about what happened and what the company is going to do about it.

"There are wildlife impacts and water and land impacts," Chambaud said in an interview Thursday.

"Right now within that area the trees, the vegetation and the soil are dead. The water is contaminated."

The Energy Resources Conservation Board has said the spill of water containing salt, oil and minerals was first reported on June 1, but the board didn't learn about its size until Tuesday. Chambaud said the 42-hectare spill is so large it raises questions about how long the pipeline that carries water used in oil and natural-gas operations had been leaking. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Big spill

- The spill covered 42 hectares of land.
- One spill last June near Sundre fouled the Red Deer River after about 475,000 litres of oil escaped.

Deadly blast shakes Louisiana

A ground-rattling explosion Thursday at a chemical plant in Louisiana ignited a fire that killed at least one person and injured dozens of others, authorities said. Louisiana's health department said 73 people were treated at hospitals for injuries ranging from minor to critical following the morning explosion. State police Capt. Doug Cain said a body was found by hazardous materials crews going through the aftermath of the blast at the facility owned by The Williams Companies Inc., based in Tulsa, Okla. Younger generations grow more private online

Poll. Young adults more divided than their elders over relative importance of privacy and security

The generation whose members have grown up posting their lives online wants a little privacy. That's not what we might expect as we debate just how much access the government should have to our mobile and online lives.

But as it turns out, young people are much more complex than some may think when determining what personal information they want to share. Sure, they're as likely as ever to post photos of themselves online — as well as their location and even phone numbers — and assume that at least some of their information is shared among website providers.

But as they approach adulthood, they're also getting more adept at hiding and pruning their online lives.

Despite their propensity for sharing, many young adults also are surprisingly big advocates for privacy — in some cases, more than their elders.

That attitude showed up in a poll done over the weekend for the Pew Research Center for the People & the Press and The Washington Post. The poll, tied to the disclosure of broad federal surveillance, found that young adults were much more divided than older generations when asked if the government should tread on their privacy to thwart terrorism.

Fifty-one per cent of young adults, ages 18 to 29, said it was "more important for the federal government to investigate possible terrorist threats, even if that intrudes on personal privacy." But 45 per cent said personal privacy was more important, even if it limited the ability to investigate possible terrorist threats.

In contrast, less than a third of adults, age 30 and older, told pollsters that preserving personal privacy was more important, while about two-thirds placed higher value on permitting terror investigations, regardless of privacy infringement.

Pollsters found that a slight majority of adults — including 18- to 29-year-olds — said it was "acceptable" for the government to secretly obtain phone call records.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Split over priorities

- 51 per cent of young adults, ages 18 to 29, said they're OK with the government invading their privacy to investigate terrorist threats.

Mandi Grandjean, a recent graduate of Miami University in Ohio, says she's fine with the government doing secret surveillance of phone-call records and Internet exchanges, but believes it's different when it comes to an employer or a coach. MARK DUNCAN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Evolution. Researchers say preference for young mates caused menopause

Theories abound as to why women go into menopause, but the latest hypothesis being put forward suggests it may be men — or specifically, their preference for younger mates — that has led to women's loss of fertility at a certain age.

Researchers at McMaster University believe that over tens of thousands of years, a lack of reproduction among older women has given rise to menopause as an unintended result of natural selection.

Using computer modelling, the researchers found that, over time, competition among men for younger mates left older females with much less chance of reproducing.

"We are saying somewhere along the line, men began to change their preference in mating," said evolutionary biologist Rama Singh, co-author of the study published in this week's issue of the journal PLOS Computational Biology.

"What we're saying is that menopause will occur if there is a preferential mating with younger women and older women are not reproducing," he said Thursday from Hamilton, Ont. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Not-so-happy birthday

Lawsuit filed over world-famous birthday tune

A production company making a documentary about the song Happy Birthday to You is challenging the copyright to the famous jingle.

Good Morning To You Productions Corp., which is working on a film tentatively titled Happy Birthday, argues in a lawsuit filed Thursday that the song should be in the public domain. The company is seeking monetary damages and restitution of more than $5 million collected by Warner/Chappell Music Inc. from the thousands who have paid it licensing fees. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Firms can't patent isolated human genes, U.S. Supreme Court rules

Washington. Decision covers breast-cancer test brought into public eye by Angelina Jolie's double mastectomy

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled companies cannot patent parts of naturally occurring human genes, a decision with the potential to profoundly affect the emerging and lucrative medical and biotechnology industries.

The high court's unanimous judgment reverses three decades of patent awards by government officials. It throws out patents held by Salt Lake City-based Myriad Genetics Inc. on an increasingly popular breast cancer test brought into the public eye recently by actress Angelina Jolie's revelation that she had a double mastectomy because of one of the genes involved in this case.

Justice Clarence Thomas, who wrote the court's decision, said that Myriad's assertion — that the DNA it isolated from the body for its proprietary breast and ovarian cancer tests were patentable — had to be dismissed because it violates patent rules. The court has said that laws of nature, natural phenomena and abstract ideas are not patentable. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BRACAnalysis test

- Myriad Genetics has used its patent to come up with its BRACAnalysis test, which looks for mutations on the breast cancer predisposition gene, or BRCA. Those mutations are associated with much greater risks of breast and ovarian cancer.
- Angelina Jolie revealed last month that her mother died of ovarian cancer and that her maternal grandmother also had the disease.
- She said she carries a defective BRCA1 gene that puts her at high risk of developing breast and ovarian cancers, and her doctor said that the test that turned up the faulty gene link led Jolie to have both of her healthy breasts removed to try to avoid the same fate.

T. rex burger is now extinct

A fast-food restaurant in Manitoba has backtracked on its offer to make customers a burger fit for Fred Flintstone. Barb Barker, an administrative assistant for the Wendy's outlet in Brandon, said they have stopped selling their T. rex burger, consisting of nine quarter-pound patties held together by nine pieces of processed cheese and a flimsy bun. "For obvious reasons, Wendy's of Brandon neither condones nor promotes the idea of anyone consuming a nine-patty hamburger in one sitting," said Barker. REDDIT/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Working for free. Internships up in the air as U.S. court finds studio violated wage laws

Unpaid internships have long been a path of opportunity for students and recent grads looking to get a foot in the door in the entertainment, publishing and other prominent industries, even if it takes a generous subsidy from mom and dad.

But those days of working for free could be numbered in the U.S. after a federal judge in New York ruled this week that Fox Searchlight Pictures violated minimum wage and overtime laws by not paying interns who worked on the production of the 2010 movie Black Swan.

The decision by U.S. District Judge William H. Pauley III may lead some companies to rethink whether it's worth the legal risk to hire interns to work without pay. For many young people struggling to find jobs in a tough economy, unpaid internships have become a rite of passage essential for padding resumés and gaining practical experience.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New lawsuit filed

- In another lawsuit filed Thursday, two former interns who worked at W Magazine and The New Yorker sued parent company Conde Nast Publications for allegedly failing to pay them the minimum wage.
- The lawsuit, filed in federal court in New York, seeks class-action status on behalf of other interns who worked in the fashion, accessories and fine jewelry departments at Conde Nast magazines.

Pity the fool

Hotel looks to hire jester

Wanted: A jester. Wallflowers need not apply.

It's no joke. An Austrian hotel is advertising for a modern-day court fool who is communicative, extroverted, musical, creative and imaginative.

Applicants are asked to play their musical instrument during the job interview. Also welcome: Creative costumes. The successful candidate will earn about $1,900 a month.

Hotel director Melanie Franke says those interested should not think they're on a fool's errand in applying. She says the idea is to treat guests like royalty, noting that "jesters were a luxury that royal families indulged themselves in."

1 WWDC. Apple unveiled its latest products at the 2013 Worldwide Developers Conference (WWDC) in San Francisco this week. The best line of the conference came from Apple marketing exec Phil Schiller. After unveiling the radically redesigned Mac Pro, he said, "Can't innovate anymore, my a--." Great mantra.

2 @HillaryClinton. The former secretary of state unlocked her Twitter account this week, and her Twitter bio lists herself, among other things, as "hair icon," "pantsuit aficionado," "glass ceiling cracker" and "TBD." Now most have a sneaking suspicion that "TBD" means a 2016 presidential bid? In due time, she'll probably make it official. With a tweet.

3 Facebook #hashtags. Now that Facebook has begun to roll out clickable, searchable hashtags (à la Twitter and Instagram) to help users better find content on the social platform, it somehow feels that hashtags have hit their tipping point. #Soon, #we'll #be #using #them #in #every #sentence #we #write. #And #in #everyday #conversation.

4 Covet Garden. This indie Canadian online decor magazine is using the crowd-funding site Indiegogo to help raise money to do a special print issue, Covet Garden Home. Their goal is $18K, and they've raised about $14K with three weeks left in the campaign. Ingenuity is the key in this economy for startups, and this is another great example of using social media to make a dream happen. Now.

5 Twerking. This latest dancing craze (Harlem Shake is so last month) got another huge shake this week when Miley Cyrus (rumoured new Justin Bieber squeeze) wiggled her hips and butt in the bouncy, up and down motion on stage at Juicy J concert. I would twerk for you, but it would totally ruin your day — and this latest online meme sensation.

6 Nadal's dramatic win. Rafael Nadal won a record-setting eighth French Open title Sunday. The only thing that almost prevented him from winning wasn't his opponent David Ferrer, but a shirtless protester with a white mask holding a lighted flare who jumped out of the stands and interrupted the match. Nadal was briefly rattled but went on to win in straight sets.

7 Real Housewives of Vancouver. The first Canadian version of the hit American franchise made it through two seasons, but won't have a third as Slice Canada has put it on hiatus. One of the problems might have been that the super-rich wives weren't superficial or plastic or vapid enough for viewers compared to their American ilk. Which is saying a lot.

8 Taylor Swift. The teeny-bopper sensation is in Toronto Friday and Saturday to begin the Canadian leg of the Red Tour, before heading west for Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver. Now my wife and daughters will be hitting one of the T.O. shows, but I couldn't bear the thought of singing along to We Are Never Ever Getting Back Together with thousands of tweens.

9 Craigslist. It's known for local classifieds and jobs ads, but sometimes gets wackier. Like this week when a 23-year-old man from Cobourg, Ont., advertised his kidney there. "You can have the left or right, they both work perfectly. I'm in shape and quit smoking a year ago. I'm being more than serious about this, asking $20,000... THIS IS 100% SERIOUS !!!" Enough said.

10 Fired over Skype. The Edmonton Oilers announced Dallas Eakins as their new head coach this week (great hire), but handled the firing of their former coach in a rather odd way. While vacationing in Switzerland, Ralph Krueger was sacked over Skype by GM Craig MacTavish. At least it wasn't by a Facebook wall post.

11 Bowie. The Art Gallery of Ontario made the epic announcement that the exhibition David Bowie will arrive there this fall straight from London's Victoria and Albert Museum. It includes the icon's original stage costumes, instruments, album art, handwritten set lists and lyrics, and more. I already have the opening day, Sept. 25, marked on my calendar.

12 The Purge. This low-budget horror film — it cost about $3 million to make — starring Ethan Hawke, demolished everything else at the box office, taking in $36.4 million. Most of it was filmed in a house. I have a great idea for an indie horror to be shot in the outhouse at my in-laws cottage. All I need is $1.5 million, a camera, a flashlight, a bear and some toilet paper.

Surf's up, dolphins

MARK VAN COLLER

How did you capture this?
It was sardine season on the east coast, so many predatory marine animals were in the region hunting. Myself and five others took a boat out to witness the animals in motion.

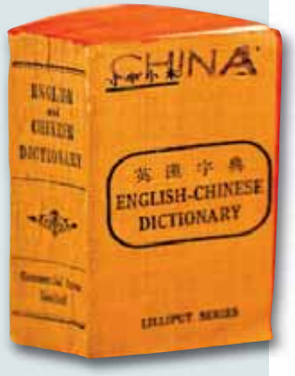
Since we're halfway through the year, many of you have likely abandoned those pesky New Year's resolutions. Was one of them to learn a new language? Give it another shot with an assist from these three.



Beginners' Chinese

You don't need to be an Economist subscriber to know that understanding Chinese could be helpful down the road. This iTunes podcast eases you into Mandarin with standard classroom fare like greetings, introductions and restaurant ordering.

ESL Pod

Canada is a nation enriched by immigration, and those arriving here with a very basic grasp of English would be very well-served by the wide variety of language and cultural lessons available here. (eslpod.com)

American Sign Language

Synopsis

The story begins on Krypton, as all good Superman origin stories must. To save his son Kal-El from perishing on the doomed planet, Jor-El (Russell Crowe) rockets him off to a safe haven — Earth. There he is raised by Ma and Pa Kent, (Diane Lane and Kevin Costner), humble farmers who raise Clark Kent (Henry Cavill) as their own and keep his alien heritage a secret, but his extraordinary powers are exposed when a snoopy reporter (Amy Adams) digs into his life and the last surviving Kryptonians, led by General Zod (Michael Shannon) try and invade the planet.

Henry Cavill is sufficiently square-jawed and blue-eyed to play Superman, but Amy Adams lacks the pluck of Lois Lane. HANDOUT

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Up, up and ... it's OK

Man of Steel.
Superman origin story has too much bang and not enough phone booths

Richard: Mark, Man of Steel plays kind of like a Nirvana song. It starts off quiet, then gets loud, then quiet again and then REALLY loud. Thing is Nirvana songs were usually under four minutes and this movie clocks in at well over two hours. Much of it is entertaining, but I have to say my eyeballs felt scorched after the protracted blow-'em-up scene that eats up much of the last 45 minutes of the movie. It's all crash-boom-bang and not nearly as interesting as the stuff that preceded it.

Mark: Richard, I always liked the Superman movies — even the bad ones — for their charm. Although there's some good scenes toward the beginning of the movie, it becomes bombastic and self-righteous; way too serious for its own good. That 45-minute scene you're referring to made me long for headphones with Enya songs playing on a long loop. And I know it's an origin movie, but I longed for the comic contrast between Superman and his journalist alter ego Clark Kent, which is mostly missing from the movie. Then again, we no longer have phone booths. Any of the actors appeal to you, Richard?

RC: I thought Cavill was suitably square-jawed and blue-eyed enough to play the icon lead character and Michael Shannon brought the crazy (as usual for him) to Zod, but I was let down by two other leads. Russell Crowe was fine, although I couldn't help but imagine Ralph Fiennes really eating up the role of Jor-El. Finally, I'm not sure Amy Adams is plucky enough to play Lois Lane.

MB: Cavill was square — I mean — square-jawed, wasn't he? Crowe was fine, but somehow Kevin Costner got to me in a very sentimental turn as Clark's dad. As for Michael Shannon, I can only assume he was forced to overact at gunpoint, with lines like "Unleash the world machine!!!!" For a movie that cost a few hundred million dollars, it was often close to a Flash Gordon serial at times.

RC: I think I wanted more Flash Gordon and less of what was on the screen in front of me. It's an entertaining movie for much of its running time, but the word overkill comes to mind. I feel like less — shorter running time, fewer explosions, not as many fights — would have been more.

MB: And did you notice that so many of the action scenes had the same basic gimmick — concrete being torn up over and over again? And I had to laugh when the entire city of Metropolis is collapsing under alien attack and there are scenes of people just staring at the buildings falling around them. If I see one brick on the ground, I'm outta there!

He may not be a baseball star, but Charlie Day's legs go on for days

Monsters University. Early audiences have warmed to Charlie Day's character in new animated film

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

As the furry purple oddball Art in Monsters University, Charlie Day walks away with nearly every scene he's in, which isn't surprising since his monster is mostly just a pair of legs with a face where the crotch would be.

Among early audiences, Art is fast becoming a favourite — or at least that's what people are telling Day.

"Well, people have been saying that to me, and I don't know what their ulterior motives are, but I appreciate it," Day tells Metro.

There is just something captivating about Art.
You know, he's a crazy guy. He's filled with the absurd non-sequiturs. He's positive, he's an optimist and he's been to jail. What's cooler than that? And then the best thing is you get to see what it would be like to be all legs. Legs for days, this guy.

How much were you involved in the design and development?
I did all the design myself. I did all the drawings, I did most of the movie (laughs). No, I did nothing. I did absolutely nothing. By the time I showed up here they had already animated a scene using lines from It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia with the character. I almost feel like they could've taken certain words that I've said from things and cobbled together the entire performance, but they were nice enough to let me do some of the work.

Charlie Day stars in Monsters University. It opens next Friday. GETTY IMAGES

What was your own college experience like?
I didn't go to as large a school (as Monsters University), and there wasn't really much Greek life on campus. I went to a school called Merrimack College in North Andover, Mass., about 20 minutes or so north of Boston. I had a lot of friends and met new people and got new ideas and became a better thinker and a more well-rounded person up there. I loved it.

Did you start off college with one idea of what you were going to do with your life and end up with another?
Yes. Well … I was a huge baseball guy growing up, as was everyone in my town. I was passionate about it, I worked really hard at it and I was half-way decent at it, but not ultimately good enough. And by college I realized that it's not going to go any further, and then I started dabbling in acting and the arts, and all that came much easier and more naturally to me (laughs).

Drama

Blancanieves

Director. Pablo Berger

Stars. Maribel Verdu, Daniel Gimenez Cacho, Angela Molina

Plainly said, you will not see another film this year quite like Blancanieves. Written and directed by Spanish filmmaker Pablo Berger, the movie is, like 2011's The Artist, a full blown, dialogue-free, monochromatic salute to the universal power of silent film. It re-tells and twists the tale of Snow White into a dream-like mythical musing on parental bonds and bullfighting and is buoyed by a majestic symphonic score.

*Should you find a lower advertised price within thirty (30) days before or after the purchase of qualifying tires from a participating Honda dealer, present the Honda dealer where you purchased or intend to purchase qualifying tires with proof of the advertised price and they will match the lower price. Offer does not apply to quotes or advertised prices from outside Canada, online auction sites, wholesalers, online retailers that have no physical stores in Canada, closeout/liquidation retailers, advertising errors or misprints or restricted offers. Subject to stock availability. Applies to Michelin, Firestone, Toyo, Goodyear, BFGoodrich, Dunlop, Uniroyal, General Tire, Yokohama and Continental brands only. Qualifying tires must be purchased and installed at a participating Honda dealer in Canada. Advertised item must: (i) be an in-stock brand, excluding Bridgestone, be of the same brand, size, model, sidewall, speed and load rating; (ii) be sold through an authorized retailer located in Canada; and (iii) be in Canadian dollars. Lowest Price Guarantee does not apply to costs associated with labour, valve stems, mounting/balancing, disposal fees and taxes. Some restrictions apply. Offer subject to change or cancellation without notice. Ask your Honda Dealer for details.

The Man in Black becomes the Man on the envelope

Music. Rosanne Cash talks about her new album, interacting with fans on Twitter and how her dad will tour again, but in a different way

ALISON BOWEN
Metro World News

An Oscar-nominated film and countless recordings have been created to honour country great Johnny Cash, but this will be the first time he travels the world forever.

Last week, the United States Postal Service unveiled a Forever stamp honouring him in their Music Icons series.

His daughter, Rosanne Cash, says the idea of her father's face adorning letters around the world is an exciting honour.

"It would be so special to him," she says. "He's now going to be touring the planet forever. ... And that's what he loved, he loved touring."

She adds, "It's the ultimate American honour, in a way."

Although the stamp was a nod to letters, Rosanne is active on a new communication tool: Twitter, where she interacts as @rosannecash with other musicians, fans and even someone who taught her to knit.

Her father, who never had an email account, would not be tweeting, she says.

"He was such a reflective person, and he enjoyed solitude a lot," she says.

Trouble Will Find The National, but they find beauty within, too

Interview. Aaron Dessner, guitarist for The National, talks about the new album and what it's like working with his brother

PAT HEALY
Metro World News

Aaron Dessner is on drugs. The guitarist for The National had to push back this interview twice because he was visiting the doctor for a stiff neck, an occupational hazard, it turns out.

"I think it might have been from that six-hour Sorrow thing," he says, before adding, "We played the same song for six hours and my back was super tight from that and it never really relaxed."

Dessner, who, along with his brother Bryce, writes most of the music for the band, discusses the band's brilliant new Trouble Will Find Me album, which came out Tuesday.

How did you come to play Sorrow for six hours straight?
It was a collaboration with this Icelandic artist, Ragnar Kjaransson. He had approached MoMA about wanting to collaborate with us. He does a lot of performance art work with musicians. It's kind of all about repetition and how things change through repetition or take on deeper meaning. So he had this very compelling, charming letter that he wrote to us, and for some reason we were in the mood at that very moment, and we were like, "OK." And when we did it, it was amazing, but we were slightly dreading the whole thing.

There's a lot of dual voices going on with this album.
We've always used other voices as kind of a silver lining.

The juxtaposition of other voices with Matt Berninger's voice makes Matt's voice richer, in a weird way, and more beautiful. So we're still doing that in this case, and there were a few places where we wanted female voices, kind of as characters, and as colour. So with Sharon (Van Etten) and Nona (Nona Marie Invie) and Annie (Clarke), we're fortunate enough to have all of these friends who have amazing voices, and also Richie (Reed Parry), who's on it, from Arcade Fire.

And we all sing also. I think it's just an evolution of trying to do that more.

You're involved in so much of the music. Do you and your brother have any involvement with the lyrics that Matt Berninger sings?
We do, but not a lot. If there's things that bother us, or if he's having trouble with something, then we'll talk about it.

I was actually there when he was recording a lot of the vocals, so there is some sort of back and forth.

Making a statement

The defining statement of the album seems to be "everything that I love is on the table" from the song, Don't Swallow the Cap. Do you think that's true?

- Quote. "I think that's a good point. It's like he's laying it all out there. And I think in a way, lyrically, this record is the most verbose, and the most direct and personal, in places. And in a weird way it pretty much encapsulates everything we've ever done. So, yeah, I think that's fair to say that's a defining line."

True Blood stardom means free food perks

Rob Kazinsky. British actor joins cast and talks about experience of shooting U.S. series

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

This season on True Blood, there's a new faerie in town with Rob Kazinsky's Ben Flynn, a supernatural love interest for Sookie Stackhouse (Anna Paquin).

The British actor is aware his introduction will likely rile some of the show's relationship-obsessed fans, but he's just happy to have a job that comes with free snacks.

So, any trepidation about coming on as a new love interest for Sookie?
I am 100 per cent certain that I am going to be absolutely hated by everyone. Team Eric's going to hate me, Team Bill's going to hate me, Team Alcide — they're all going to absolutely loathe this guy just because he's not them. And I am prepared for that backlash. However I think in time people will come to realize that Ben, for the first time, offers a chance at happiness that none of those guys could ever give her. He is essentially a much more honest and a much more accessible guy than everybody else. But that certainly doesn't mean he's boring.

How does this compare to your time on the British soap opera Eastenders?
Different worlds. Vastly different worlds. I did 254 episodes of Eastenders and averaged about 85 episodes a year, shooting anywhere between 30 and 50 pages of dialogue a day. And then this, we're doing 10 episodes a year, so it's a slightly different machine. (laughs) The whole way everything goes on here in America is very, very different to how it's run in England. The biggest difference to me is always craft services. Having free food on set is just the best thing that's ever happened to anybody ever.

Is craft service really not a thing in England?
For the BBC there's no such thing as crafty or free food. At Eastenders there wasn't, anyway. So having doughnuts on set? Wonderful. Fresh fruit all the time? Having a coffee machine instead of having to pay three pounds for your coffee every time you want one? Oh my God, it's great.

This is news to me. I feel like my only exposure to British TV production was Extras, which looked more in line with American setup.
I think that was the idea so that it would be universally sellable. I mean, my experience in England is fairly limited to the soap that I did and the one other TV show I did. The way they do it [in the U.S.], when I did Brothers and Sisters, Law & Order, everything, it's a much easier place to be offset, you know what I mean? There's much more to do when you're not working.

The look of choice on Queen Street West in Toronto Sunday night might well be Thierry Lasry shades and drop-crotch pants as music fans gather for the block party of the year. Crossover K-Pop sensation PSY is sharing hosting duties at MuchMusic's annual MMVA bash along with VJ's Scott Willats and Lauren Toyota. Remember the Gentleman singer's style code: "dress classy to dance cheesy." Set the mood with the Red Carpet special at 8 p.m. ET and then the party airs live on MuchMusic, and on Fuse in the U.S. at 9 p.m. ET. Here's five reasons why you should tune in, or even better, turn up!

5 reasons to watch this year's MMVAs

Red carpet roll up

Arriving in style is a hallmark of the MMVAs. In past years we've had Billy Talent roll up atop a Second World War era Sherman Tank on loan from an Ontario museum, Simple Plan cruise up in a pink limousine with band members rocking short white shorts and midriff-baring tees, and Katy Perry serving up cool treats in an ice cream truck. When it comes to outlandish entrances, Marianas Trench, who leads the pack this year with six nomination nods, typically takes the cake. In past years, the Vancouver pop-rockers have come to the carpet in a hot tub, human-size hamster balls and even a mobile bouncy house.

Video of the year

This is the biggie. Could it go to nominations leader Marianas Trench for Desperate Measures, where frontman Josh Ramsay channels Tom Cruise circa Risky Business and Toy Story's Woody, or perhaps Drake reliving his coming up days and hamming it up at Shoppers Drug Mart in Started from the Bottom? The other contenders in the mix are Serena Ryder for Stompa, The Weeknd for Wicked Games, and Classified for Inner Ninja.

Taking to the stage

Artists leave it all on the stage at the MMVAs — from Avril Lavigne's cheek-revealing rendition of Complicated back in 2002 (which she had fun with the following year with some intentional mooning action) to Lady Gaga's electric medley a few years back that culminated with fireworks shooting out of her bustier. This year PSY, the master of cheesy dance moves, may treat us to the wild gyrations that accompany Gentleman, his viral smash — the video has more than 400 million YouTube views — or kick it relatively old school by social media standards with Gangnam Style. Regardless, the performance slate for the MMVAs is dripping with hot artists that will keep audiences moving. The lineup includes Demi Lovato, Armin Van Buuren featuring Trevor Guthrie, Ed Sheeran and Marianas Trench.

Billy Talent

The MMVAS have been kind to these Mississauga punk rockers in the past, feting them with 29 nominations and nine wins. But they may want to clear off some shelf space on the mantle. The video for Surprise Surprise is on the ballot in a trio of categories, so they're in spitting distance of surpassing Our Lady Peace's all-time record haul of 10 wins. Who is the queen of the MMVAs? Look no further than Avril Lavigne, who'll notch her fifth MMVA performance (the most of any artist) this year.

Handling hot hardware

Taylor Swift is sticking around town after a pair of sold out shows at the Rogers Centre to hand out an award. Among the presenters joining T-Swizzle in distributing MMVAs to their worthy recipients are a bevy of faces sure to illicit teen squeals when they take the stage: Teen Wolf's alpha heartthrob Tyler Hoechlin, Revenge's Joshua Bowman, Glee's Naya Rivera, Big Bang Theory's Kunal Nayyar, Arrow's Stephen Amell (pictured) and Suits' Patrick J. Adams, to name a few.

Halle Berry. ALL IMAGES GETTY

Martinez may be French, but Berry will have a Yankee doodle boy

Halle Berry is having a boy, and she's having him in the States. At least that's what her fiancé, Olivier Martinez, let slip to People magazine. "My son will be an American, but I remain French," Martinez said during the Champs-Elysées Film Festival in Paris this week. "I remain a Frenchman in America, but I adapt to American culture. I feel good there — but I'm still a foreigner."

Banal boat duty highlights redundancy of the Royals

ALEXANDRA CAVALLO
Metro World News

Evidence that the Royals are just redundant figureheads: one super important royal duty that the Duchess of Cambridge had to take care of recently included blessing the newest ship in the Princess Cruises fleet.

The only woman capable of such a lofty task, the very pregnant Kate apparently smashed a giant champagne bottle on the cruise ship's helm in order to officially christen it "Royal Princess."

She then said "I name this ship Royal Princess. May God bless her and all who sail in her."

David Cameron must have been off on some sort of other really important business, because we find it hard to believe he would shirk a crucial political event like this of his own volition.

Harry Styles

Take tatt! Styles and Bieber appear to be in an ink war

One Direction's Harry Styles is giving Justin Bieber a run for his money when it comes to accumulating body art. It's tough to say which 19-year-old pop star has more body art at this point, but Styles is at least being a bit bolder with his references: The Brit showed off a pair of George Michael-inspired ankle tattoos while out in Miami this week, according to the Daily Mail. Just above each foot, Styles has the words "Never gonna dance again" inscribed, referencing a lyric from the 1984 Wham! hit Careless Whisper. Your move, Bieber.

The steak house comes to dad this Father's Day

Dinner. Cook this twist on the Batman and Robin of manly fare — steak and potatoes

This recipe serves six. MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ingredients

- 4 tbsp extra-virgin olive oil
- 2 medium russet potatoes, peeled and coarsely grated
- Kosher salt and black pepper
- 1 medium shallot, minced
- 1 tbsp white wine vinegar
- 2 tbsp dry white wine
- 2 tsp dried tarragon
- 6 oz 1/3-less fat cream cheese (Neufchatel)
- 1 1/2 lbs flank steak, trimmed of any visible fat
- 1 1/2 lbs baby spinach leaves
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 tsp chopped fresh tarragon

1. Heat the oven to 350 F.

2. In nonstick skillet over medium-high, heat 1 tablespoon of the oil. Add grated potatoes, pressing down with spatula, then reduce heat to medium and cook until golden brown on bottom, 12 minutes. Remove skillet from heat. Set large dinner plate over skillet, then invert to transfer potatoes, browned side up, onto plate.

3. Return skillet to heat and add another 1/2 tablespoon of oil. Slide potatoes back into the skillet, browned side up. Cook until golden brown on second side, about another 10 minutes. Season with salt and pepper, then transfer to a sheet pan and place in the oven to keep warm.

4. Meanwhile, in saucepan over medium-high, combine shallot, vinegar, white wine, tarragon, hefty pinch of salt and few grinds of pepper. Bring to boil, then reduce heat to simmer. Cook gently until reduced to about 1 tablespoon. Add cream cheese, 1 tablespoon at a time, whisking each until incorporated. Whisk in 2 tablespoons water, then set aside.

5. Wipe out skillet, add 1 tablespoon of remaining oil and heat it over medium-high. Pat steak dry, sprinkle on both sides with salt and pepper, then add to skillet. Cook to desired doneness, 5 minutes per side for medium rare, then transfer it to platter, cover loosely with foil and let rest 5 minutes.

6. While steak rests, add tablespoon of oil to skillet and reduce heat to medium. Add spinach in 4 batches, adding more as each batch cooks down slightly. Add remaining 1/2 tablespoon of oil after first 2 batches of spinach. Cook until spinach is just wilts, then add garlic and salt and pepper to taste. Cook for another minute, then keep warm on low heat.

7. Remove potato pancake from the oven and cut it into 6 wedges. Slice steak thinly at angle against the grain. Add juices from resting steak to sauce along with fresh tarragon, and additional water, if necessary, to reach the desired consistency. Warm sauce over medium heat just until hot.

8. Transfer potato wedge, mound of spinach and some of steak to each of 6 serving plates. Drizzle sauce over each portion of steak and serve. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/ SARA MOULTON, AUTHOR OF SARA MOULTON'S EVERYDAY FAMILY DINNERS.

A glass of inspiration

LIQUID ASSETS

One of my resolutions for 2013 was to barbecue better. I've spent too many years tossing burgers on the grill and turning to my glass as they turn into charcoal.

For inspiration, I've looked to Argentina. It's a country where grilling is more than a cooking philosophy, it's a way of life.

While beef is king at an asado, the Argentinean term for barbecue, a typical grilled menu can cover a number of courses featuring a variety of meat cuts including organs that Canadians find an acquired taste. Chitlins anyone?

Nothing washes down all that protein better than a glass of red wine, which is one of the reasons why malbec is the star of Argentina's wine industry. The grape produces deep wines with varying levels of spiciness that pair perfectly with accretive flavours (like those found in barbecue sauces).

Bodegas Catena Zapata is one of the country's most celebrated vineyards. Its 2011 Alamos Malbec ($13.95 to $14.99) is a balanced red with ripe berry fruit and a flowing black pepper trail.

Pass the sweetbreads.

POLISHED AND PRETTY

Brushing your pooch makes it look polished and pretty. But it has many more benefits.

It keeps your dog's coat free of tangles, matts and debris and removes old and shedding hair. It also gives you the opportunity to do a little doggie bonding and helps you learn about your dog's body — you can look and feel for lumps, cuts or scabs, as well as fleas and ticks. Note that this summer, the word is that ticks are out in full force, so be on the lookout.

Make brushing a positive experience for you and your dog by doing it regularly. The dog will get used to it, you will get good at it and there won't be an opportunity for tangles and matts to get out of control and make the process uncomfortable and lengthy.

"Start with a part down the backbone, so you know you're getting all the layers of hair," says Amy Graham, a PetSmart groomer and salon manager in Stoney Creek, Ont. Systematically, move from section to section to ensure you are getting all areas.

"Keep an eye on the dog's skin — if it appears red, he may be getting a brush burn."

Remember to brush gently, confining your brushing to the hair and not the skin as much as possible, especially in sensitive areas.

If you are using a deshedding tool on a shedding breed, "simply run the tool over the dog's coat to remove excess hair."

If the job gets too difficult for you to handle easily it may be time to take your dog for professional grooming.

STOCKLITE/VEER

THE RIGHT TOOLS FOR A HEALTHY COAT

- For double-coated breeds with thick undercoats like collies or collies or chow chows, choose a deshedding tool like a Furminator.
- For long-coated dogs without undercoats, such as poodles, use a slicker brush with short, pin-like bristles and a comb to check for knots and tangles.
- Short-haired dogs like boxers or bulldogs can be brushed with a rubber brush, or use a Furminator if you are trying to help reduce shedding."
- Also have some detangling spray on hand to help with tangles.

MANAGE YOUR DOG'S SHEDDING

In summer, shedding is nature's way of ridding a dog's body of the old, excess hair they grew during winter to insulate their bodies. Shedding also eliminates hair that might be damaged. Pet owners know that cleaning up a dog's shedding hair comes with the territory. Even hypoallergenic dogs like poodles shed a little. But there are ways to reduce shedding and remove hair effectively.

GIVE YOUR PET A BRUSH

Brushing your dog on a regular basis is one of the best ways to reduce hair in your home.

"While all breeds need to be brushed, it's especially important in summer for long-haired breeds with undercoats like golden retrievers, malamutes and huskies to help reduce shedding and cool the dog in summer," says Amy Graham, a groomer and salon manager with PetSmart in Stoney Creek, Ont.

Depending on the breed of your dog, brush at least three times a week — dogs with lots of excess hair will benefit from daily brushing.

BATHE YOUR DOG

This is easier for short-haired breeds without thick undercoats like pugs or labs.

"If your dog is matted or has a thick undercoat, bathing may only make the matting worse or make it difficult to rinse out the shampoo, which is bad for the skin," Graham says. "Leave the tough jobs like these to a groomer."

GET YOUR DOG GROOMED

"Groomers have professional-strength blow dryers and tools to make the job more efficient," Graham says. "A groomer's blow dryer is so strong that it loosens the undercoat, and the groomer can brush during the drying process, something that can't be done easily at home."

Long-coated dogs should go to the groomer every four to six weeks; short-coated dogs every six to eight weeks.

FEED YOUR DOG THE RIGHT DIET

What a dog eats will be reflected in the condition of the animal's coat, so good-quality food aligned to the dog's health needs is essential.

Tractor Restaurant

Having just opened within the last month, this is a definite must-do if you happen to be hungry and in the Kitsilano area of Vancouver. This colourful and quaint 34-seat restaurant (with additional 18 seats on the patio) is the perfect spot to satiate your appetite just off Cypress. Tractor serves up a tasty array of nearly a dozen healthy and unique salads, soups, sandwiches and stews cafeteria-style. tractorfood.com. 1903 West 4th Ave.

B.C. Shellfish Festival

Head to Comox this weekend and celebrate the best of B.C. shellfish at one of the largest shellfish festivals on the west coast. Join thousands of others as you check out a special chefs dinner, cooking demonstrations (courtesy of more than a dozen restaurants, cafés and more), enjoy sampling goods from the annual chowder challenge, check out the Comox Farmers Market and on site beer garden, do a shellfish farm tour, and catch the Oyster Shucking Championship. Car Free Festival

This Sunday, join thousands of other like-minded Vancouverites and park it. Car-Free Festival in Vancouver was first started in 2005 as a response to the provincial government's Gateway Program (known as the Port Mann/Highway 1 Improvement Project). The Festival (run by volunteers) involves more than 30 core organizers and 300 volunteers and has expanded to attract more than 25,000 participants throughout the city — becoming one of Vancouver's largest community events and street parties. Learn more about how you can get involved here: carfreevancouver.org

Coming up: Make Music Vancouver

Mark your calendar for the return of one of the city's most popular free events next weekend and head to Gastown for Make Music. Historic Water Street will be fully closed to traffic in order to allow for transformation of sidewalks to stages and dance floors. This and plenty more will pop up, showcasing more than 150 different bands, performers and amateur musicians for one night only — and as part of this world-wide Fete de la Musique. AHL

Canucks affiliate reportedly moving to Utica

The American Hockey League's board of governors has approved the move of the Canucks' minor-league affiliate to Utica, N.Y., according to multiple reports.

The move was subject to a vote from the AHL governors, which took place Thursday. A spokesperson for the AHL did not confirm the results of today's vote.

The Canucks had previously had their top minor league affiliate stationed in Chicago.

In April, the AHL approved the Canucks' purchase of the Peoria Rivermen from the St. Louis Blues, giving the Canucks ownership of their own affiliate.

The Canucks had been in talks with the City of Abbotsford to bring their affiliate to the Fraser Valley and the Abbotsford Entertainment and Sports Centre, which is home to the Heat, the Calgary Flames minor league team.

Those negotiations broke apart in April, leaving the Canucks to explore other options about where to land their farm team.

Lions take on Stampeders in exhibition play

Members of the B.C. Lions will have a chance to hit someone from a different team, after almost two full weeks of training camp in Kamloops.

The Lions are in Calgary to play the Stampeders, 2012 Grey Cup finalists, Friday evening in the first exhibition game of the spring for B.C.

The Lions released the roster for Friday's game — veteran centre Angus Reid, defensive back Dante Marsh and kicker Paul McCallum were left off the list.

The club also announced a small list of transactions Thursday morning.

Import receivers William Cole and Travon Patterson, and import linebacker Kevin Reed were released. METRO

Sanvezzo returns to form for Whitecaps

MLS. Vancouver hosts the New England Revolution on Saturday

It has the elements of the typical bounce-back story.

Camilo Sanvezzo, who led the Vancouver Whitecaps with 12 goals back in 2011, has, two years later and to this point in the season, returned to the form that once earned him the Player of the Year honours.

Squished in between is that difficult 2012 campaign.

With the ink not fully dry on a new contract signed with the Vancouver side in February of 2012, the Brazilian striker endured the dreaded sophomore slump, scoring only five times in 28 regular-season games.

Not the numbers expected of a player paid $237,500 last year.

That feels like a long time ago, now.

He is once again the club's top scorer in MLS competition, having already equalled his goal production from a year ago.

And, with the Whitecaps hosting the stingy New England Revolution on Saturday at BC Place Stadium, he isn't showing signs of letting up. Quite the opposite, actually. He scored twice in Vancouver's 3-2 loss to Seattle last weekend.

Cashing in on the newly found chemistry with Canadian midfielder Russell Teibert, Sanvezzo has suddenly been finding the back of the net with regularity, three goals in his last three regular-season games the evidence.

That's not including his magnificent strike against the Montreal Impact in the Amway Canadian Championship finale.

"I think that he came in fitter this off-season. I think last off-season, he was a little bit in negotiations over his contract and there were some things that took him a little while to get settled," said head coach Martin Rennie on Thursday, following training at UBC.

"He's playing with a lot of confidence and we just want to keep him going.

Sanvezzo and the Whitecaps clash with a Revolution team that sits sixth in the Eastern Conference standings, currently out of a playoff spot, but has allowed the fewest goals against in the entire league.

New England has given up just nine — yes, nine — goals in 14 games.

"We need to move the ball quickly, have a good tempo, but we've got players who can score," said Rennie.

NBA Finals. Heat regain sizzle to even series

Dwyane Wade scored 32 points in Miami's 109-93 win Thursday.
CHRISTIAN PETERSEN/GETTY IMAGES

LeBron James scored 33 points while playing with the aggression and ferocity that everyone expects of the four-time MVP, leading the Miami Heat to a 109-93 victory over the San Antonio Spurs on Thursday night that evened the NBA Finals at two games apiece.

James also had 11 rebounds and four assists and finally got some much-needed help from his struggling All-Star teammates. Dwyane Wade scored 32 points, Chris Bosh had 20 points and 13 rebounds and the defending champions made sure the series will head back to South Beach.

Tony Parker had 15 points and nine assists while playing through a sore right hamstring for the Spurs, who were trying to move one step closer to their fifth championship.

Game 5 in the best-of-seven series is Sunday night in San Antonio.

Bruins not fazed by 3OT loss in Game 1

Stanley Cup final.
Boston and its veterans drawing from experience gained in 2011 playoff run

Boston coach Claude Julien isn't worried because the Bruins have been here before.

Even after a triple-overtime loss to Chicago in Game 1 of the Stanley Cup final that would demoralize the most veteran of groups, the Bruins are calm and confident.

"We've been through a lot," Julien said. "You can chalk that down to experience of having been through a lot, the ups and downs. So we don't get rattled anymore. We know what we can do."

Julien recalled trailing the Vancouver Canucks 2-1 in the 2011 final before coming back to win in seven. He also pointed out that the Bruins lost the first two games to the Montreal Canadiens at home in the first round two years ago.

"I think you've had experience in the past when we've been down two games and bounced back," centre Chris Kelly said. "Being here before and knowing what to expect is definitely beneficial."

So climbing out of a hole is nothing new for Boston, which might have to play Game 2 on Saturday without right-winger Nathan Horton, who left Wednesday night with an apparent upper-body injury.

"Vancouver it was everybody's kind (of) first time around, right?" defenceman Andrew Ference said. "So you lose those couple games (it's) maybe a heavier feeling than it is this morning amongst the group because guys are probably a little bit better at turning the page."

The challenge in turning the page this time comes from the way the Bruins lost Game 1 — in triple overtime on a double deflection that goaltender Tuukka Rask could do little to stop.

Pens tack on 8 years to Malkin's contract

The Pittsburgh Penguins could have blown it all up.

Swept out of the Stanley Cup playoffs in the Eastern Conference final by the Boston Bruins, speculation swirled about the futures of coach Dan Bylsma, superstar Evgeni Malkin and goaltender Marc-Andre Fleury.

Amid calls for action, general manager Ray Shero got busy after the Penguins were ousted. But his moves have been the opposite of a complete overhaul.

"It's easy to change," Shero said Wednesday in Pittsburgh.

Shero extended Bylsma and his assistants' contracts two years through the 2015-16 season, gave Fleury a vote of confidence as the team's franchise goaltender and then Thursday agreed to terms with Malkin on an eight-year, $76-million contract extension that could keep him with the Penguins for the balance of his NHL career.

MMA. Evans knows his enemy ahead of UFC 161

Rashad Evans says it will be a little crazy looking across the cage on Saturday in Winnipeg at Dan Henderson, a veteran fighter he has followed for years.

"I have a tremendous amount of respect for Dan and it's going to be fun because I've watched his style for a long time," Evans said Thursday.

"I kind of modelled my style after his a little bit."

Evans, with an MMA record of 22-3-1 and a UFC record of 12-3-1, is still predicting a win when the light heavyweights meet at UFC 161.

He's coming off losses to Jon Jones and Rogerio Noguiera, who was to be in one of the cancelled fights Saturday that bumped Evans-Henderson into the main-event slot.

"Speed I think is going to be the biggest factor in this fight," he added.

Both are former champions who would like to get another title shot, although neither was begging for one Thursday.

"Eventually, I beat enough people, I do it impressively enough, they're going to want to give me a title shot," said Evans.

Henderson, 42 to Evans' 33, is looking to improve on his MMA record of 29-9. He has a UFC record of 6-3 that dates all the way back to UFC 17 in 1998 and lost his last fight in a split decision to Lyoto Machida in February.

Rashad Evans GETTY IMAGES

He knows what to expect from Evans.

"I think it's going to be a war. He's quick and dangerous on his feet and a good wrestler," said Henderson.

Henderson has a reputation as a great puncher, but Evans says he can hold his own.

"I believe I have a heavier punch but Dan Henderson, his punch is legendary. He's silenced a lot of people with the H bomb." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Good things are sure to come your way today but exactly what kind of good things remains to be seen. You may well benefit from something you hear, maybe when you should not have been listening.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Anyone who tries to make you feel you have done something wrong is not a friend and best avoided. Your mood is positive, so it's unlikely you will be too fazed.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
You will sail through what has to be done today. You will find ways to overcome obstacles placed in your path. Gemini is one of the more adaptable signs of the zodiac, and that works in your favour.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
You have much to think about today and you need to make sure you are not interrupted by people whose problems are, to your mind at least, rather trivial. Find a quiet corner where you can think in peace.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
What appeared so difficult yesterday will suddenly be the easiest thing. Chances are it wasn't actually that difficult at all. You were just in an unnecessarily negative frame of mind.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Stop worrying what others might think and do what you feel is right. Sometimes you can be a bit too analytical for your own good, so switch and let your heart guide you.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
You may have to tell someone that you cannot deliver on what you promised. Chances are they won't mind in the slightest. It seems like they didn't want you to do it.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
The solution to a problem is simplicity but you are unlikely to see it if you are so convinced there has been an injustice. Calm down, it's really not that important.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Stop panicking and trust your instincts. If you listen to the small voice inside your head you will find a way out of your dilemma. It's amazing what a bit of perspective can do.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
People you work with may do things you don't approve of today but in the greater scheme of things it's no big deal. By all means laugh when they discover they've made fools of themselves.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
With both Mars and Jupiter moving through the most dynamic area of your chart, you are full of confidence and eager to show what you can do. So, what can you do? Absolutely anything you like.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
What happens today will encourage you to believe that the good days are on their way back but that is not an invitation to do something stupid. Keep your goal in mind at all times, and keep moving towards it. SALLY BROMPTON
